Yates confirmed as U.S. deputy attorney general

Alumna Sally Quillian Yates (J.D.'86) has been confirmed as the U.S. deputy attorney general. She has been serving in an acting capacity in this No. 2 position in the U.S. Department of Justice after being nominated by President Barack Obama. Previously, Yates served as the U.S. attorney for the Northern District of Georgia.

U.S. District Court Judge Steve Jones to deliver Georgia Law commencement speech

Steve C. Jones, U.S. District Court judge for the Northern District of Georgia, will deliver the keynote address at Georgia Law's Commencement on May 16 at 10 a.m. on the North Campus quadrangle in front of the law school. Approximately 190 students will receive the Juris Doctor degree at this year's ceremony. Additionally, approximately 15 Master of Laws candidates, who have completed one year of graduate legal study, will be recognized. Learn more.

Burch receives American Law Institute's Young Scholars Medal

Associate Professor Elizabeth "Beth" Chamblee Burch has been awarded the American Law Institute's Young Scholars Medal. This national award is presented every other year to one or two outstanding early-career law professors whose work has the potential to influence improvements in the law. Burch's research focuses on class actions and large-scale, non-class aggregation. She is noted for her interdisciplinary approach to procedure and often draws from fields that bear on collective action and group decision-making, including social psychology, behavioral law and economics, as well as political philosophy. Moser to lead advancement office

On May 1, Anne S. Moser became the interim senior director of development at Georgia Law. She takes over the leadership of the Office of Law School Advancement from Gregory C. "Greg" Sowell (J.D.'83), who served as the law school's senior director of advancement and as an adjunct professor for the past three years. Moser has been a member of the law school's staff for more than one decade. She has served as the school's director of development and, most recently, as its principal gifts officer. Throughout her tenure, she has worked to secure private donations to support the school's efforts in providing first-rate legal training and producing world-class scholarship in service to our state and nation. Eaton and Wood appointed to law school's Board of Visitors

Dean Peter B. "Bo" Rutledge is pleased to announce that Hosch Professor Thomas A. "Tom" Eaton and U.S. District Court Chief Judge Lisa Godbey Wood (J.D.'90) will become new members of the law school's Board of Visitors this fall. The BOV serves as a consultative and advisory body about the affairs of the law school to the University System of Georgia Board of Regents, UGA President Jere W. Morehead (J.D.'80), and the dean and faculty of the law school.

Notable faculty scholarship

- Assistant Professor Nathan S. Chapman's article "Due Process as Separation of Powers" (121 Yale Law Review 1672 (with M. McConnell) (2012)) was cited by U.S. Supreme Court Justice Clarence Thomas in his concurring opinion in Department of Transportation v. Association of American Railroads, 575 U.S. ____, No. 13-1080 (2015) (Thomas, J., concurring in the opinion, at slip op. 7, 9, 11n.3).
- Distinguished Research Professor & Shackelford Distinguished Professor in Taxation Law Walter Hellerstein's treatise on state taxation was cited by the U.S. Supreme Court in Alabama Department of Revenue v. CSX Transportation, Inc. (March 4, 2015). The Supreme Court referred to his work as follows: "As one treatise has observed, we recognize a 'wide latitude state legislatures enjoy in drawing tax classifications under the Equal Protection Clause.' 1 J. Hellerstein & W. Hellerstein, State Taxation ¶ 3.03[1], p. 3-5 (3d ed. 2001-2005). This includes the power to impose 'widely different taxes on various trades or professions.'" Id., at 3-5 to 3-6. Additionally, his treatise was cited four times by the Supreme Court of Oregon in the course of its opinion in Powerex Corp. v. Department of Revenue, 357 Or. 40 (2015), which addressed the attribution of sales of natural gas and electricity for state corporate income tax purposes.
- Assistant Professor Kent H. Barnett's article "The Consumer Financial Protection Bureau's Appointment with Trouble" was cited by the U.S. District Court for the Southern District of Indiana. The court referred to the article as "offering legitimate and serious analysis" on separation-of-powers questions surrounding the Federal Consumer Financial Protection Bureau's structure.
- Alston Chair in Corporate Law Margaret V. Sachs' research contained in her forthcoming article, "Superstar Judges as Entrepreneurs: The Untold Story of Fraud-on-the-Market" in 48 UC Davis Law Review (2015), was used in a petition for certiorari filed by Motorola.
