THE EDITORS' PAGE

The Journal of Intellectual Property Law is pleased to present its inaugural issue. The Journal seeks to provide a forum for the discussion, both theoretical and practical, of intellectual property law and policy. Many—judges and lawyers, professors and students—have something to contribute to this important discussion.

We are fortunate to have a very distinguished group of authors—L. Ray Patterson, Pamela Samuelson, David Lange, Paul Heald, and Robert Rotstein—on our initial effort. Their generosity is much appreciated. Of course, the Journal of Intellectual Property Law stands as a tribute to many people. First and foremost, Professor Patterson, the inspiration for the Journal, deserves special thanks for his tireless efforts on our behalf. We also thank Professor Heald for his advice and assistance. In addition, the Journal owes a special debt of gratitude to the Advisory Board—Judge Birch, Miles Alexander, Tony Askew, Jerry Blackstock, Bill Needle, and John Staton—for making this project possible. Their guidance and assistance is always appreciated.

To the former Dean of the University of Georgia School of Law, C. Ronald Ellington, and his successor, Edward D. Spurgeon, we are grateful for their constant support. We also wish to thank all of the students, faculty, and administration at the School of Law. Finally, special thanks go to Dr. Giles W. Kennedy and Ms. Elaine Mitchell.
