

Justice Clarence Thomas speaks at a lunch with members of the Davenport-Benham Black Law Students Association.

U.S. Supreme Court Justice Thomas makes third visit to Georgia Law since 2003

In October, U.S. Supreme Court Justice Clarence Thomas spent three days at Georgia Law, where he lectured in constitutional law and education law classes, met with various student groups, held a question and answer session with the student body and mingled with alumni at a tailgate prior to the Mississippi State football game, which he attended as a guest of UGA President Michael F. Adams.