

“MAKE THE CHOICE TO SUPPORT GEORGIA LAW”

I made the choice to attend the University of Georgia School of Law because it offered an excellent legal education and affordable tuition. The education I received at Georgia has served as the foundation for success in my legal career.

I choose to financially support the Law School Fund with annual contributions for two reasons; first, because we all have an obligation to give back to the sources of our success and, in this instance, ensure that others may also benefit from an affordable legal education; and second, as the managing partner of Ashe, Rafuse & Hill, I understand that our firm and the entire legal community benefit from assisting the School of Law and the outstanding new lawyers who join us in the profession each year.

Charitable giving by alumni has an enormous impact on this great institution. Every gift matters, as it advances the mission of the law school. Make the choice to support Georgia Law.
