We are pleased to send you Georgia Law’s 2005-2006 Annual Report, which combines the dean’s annual newsletter with the school’s annual donor report. As you read through these pages, you will learn about our past year’s activities and accomplishments as well as the generous financial support we received from alumni and friends. We are grateful to have the opportunity to recognize and to publicly thank each year the many alumni and friends who have invested in our success.

Once again, I am pleased to present to you our Annual Report, which incorporates both my annual Dean’s Report and our Annual Donor Report, giving you a comprehensive look at the school’s activities over the past year.

During this period, the School of Law went through the American Bar Association/Association of American Law Schools reaccreditation process, which each law school undergoes every seven years. This process provided a much needed occasion to pause and reflect on our many accomplishments and successes, as well as an opportunity to think critically about where our law school is heading and the challenges and opportunities that await. We were pleased, but not surprised, by the ABA/AALS’ favorable report on our school.

I believe each law school has three primary pillars on which its success is based. These pillars are faculty, students and alumni. At Georgia Law, our faculty, our students and our alumni each play a critical role in adding to the rich foundation laid by those who came before us. The following will provide you with an update on each of these areas.

Faculty

One of our chief priorities last year was to hire additional faculty, and we were successful in attracting four new scholars to our staff – David A. Brennen, Julian A. Cook III, Fazal Khan and Sonja R. West. Both David and Julian served as visiting professors here last fall.

David, who was formerly the Palmer Professor of Tax Law at Mercer University and who has more than 10 years of university-level teaching experience, has worked as assistant general counsel for Florida’s Department of Revenue and as an associate with the law firm of Messer, Vickers, Caparello, Madsen, Lewis, Goldman & Metz in Tallahassee. David earned his bachelor’s degree from Florida Atlantic University and his law degree and Master of Laws in Tax from the University of Florida. He, naturally, will lead courses in tax law.

Julian most recently taught as an associate professor at Michigan State University and has nearly a decade of legal teaching experience. A former judicial clerk of Judge Philip M. Pro of the U.S. District Court for the District of Nevada, his other experience includes several years as an assistant U.S. attorney for the Department of Justice. Julian holds a bachelor’s degree from Duke University, a Master of Public Administration from Columbia University and a law degree from the University of Virginia. He will instruct in the areas of criminal law, criminal procedure and evidence.

Specializing in health law, Fazal came to Georgia Law with considerable experience in both the legal and medical fields. Previously, he served as a litigation associate for the Chicago firm of Jenner & Block and as a mock trial developer for the National Foundation for Judicial Excellence as well as held multiple teaching and research assistantships at the university level. Fazal obtained his bachelor’s degree with honors from the University of Chicago, graduated magna cum laude from law school and earned his M.D., both from the University of Illinois, where he also served as book review editor of the University of Illinois Law Review.

A former judicial clerk of U.S. Supreme Court Justice John Paul Stevens and the fifth former Supreme Court clerk on our faculty, Sonja previously served as the Hugo Black Faculty Fellow at the University of Alabama. She also clerked for U.S. Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit Judge Dorothy W. Nelson and worked as an associate with the Los Angeles firms of Gibson, Dunn & Crutcher and Davis Wright Tremaine. Sonja earned her bachelor’s degree with honors and distinction from the University of Iowa and her law degree with high honors from the University of Chicago, where she served as executive editor of The University of Chicago Law Review and was inducted into the Order of the Coif. She will teach Media Law and Constitutional Law.

I am pleased to report Daniel M. “Dan” Bodansky, who is internationally recognized as one of the premier authorities on global climate change and the holder of the Woodruff Chair in International Law, assumed the associate dean for faculty development position vacated by Rusk Professor Peter J. Spiro earlier this summer. While Peter’s presence will be missed, I am confident Dan will help to further the law school’s academic reputation by working closely with the law school’s faculty, especially our junior faculty, to expand and promote scholarly activities.

In this vein, Dan worked with Peter this past spring to establish the International Law Colloquium Series, which brings leading international law scholars to Athens to present substantial works-in-progress. This initiative complements the Faculty Colloquium Series started last fall and brings notable scholars to the law school to promote legal dialogue and to foster and strengthen relationships with other top institutions. Both of these programs are made possible by the Kirbo Trust Endowed Faculty Enhancement Fund, supported by Bruce W. (J.D. 1951) and Catherine Kirbo.

Scholarly research by the Georgia Law faculty continues to enhance our academic reputation. Once again, our professors enjoyed considerable success over the past year on the publishing front as evidenced by completed or forthcoming pieces from the Oxford University Press, the Harvard University Press, Aspen Publishers, LexisNexis, Thomson/West and the Foundation Press, among others. Some of the journals carrying recent work of the Georgia Law faculty are affiliated with the law schools at these leading universities and colleges – California at Los Angeles, Duke, Georgetown, Illinois, Michigan, North Carolina at Chapel Hill, Northwestern, Notre Dame, Ohio State, Washington, Washington and Lee, and Vanderbilt.

Additionally, Georgia Law has increased its participation with the Social Science Research Network and has partnered to provide ready access to works-in-progress and select completed pieces authored by our faculty. If you would like to receive periodic e-mail announcements with abstracts of the latest research written by Georgia Law faculty and links to the full text papers, please register at SSRN.com.

Some notable honors bestowed on the Georgia Law faculty during the last 12 months include: Prosecutorial Clinic Director Alan A. Cook (J.D. 1984) was named Advocate of the Year by the Domestic Violence Task Force of Athens-Clarke and Oconee Counties.

Hosch Professor Anne Proffitt Dupre (J.D. 1988) was selected as a senior fellow by UGA’s Institute of Higher Education for her work with the unit over the past several years, which includes programs with Jilin University in China, the University of Zagreb in Croatia and the Education Law Consortium.

Associate Dean Paul M. Kurtz received the UGA Disability Resource Center Outstanding Faculty Member Award, which recognizes faculty members who go beyond what is legally required and demonstrate an exceptional attitude in teaching and working with students with disabilities.

Shackelford Distinguished Professor Walter Hellerstein was elected as a trustee of the American Tax Policy Institute, which fosters the improvement of the U.S. tax system by providing nonpartisan analysis and research on federal, state, local and international tax policy issues.

Callaway Chair Emeritus Ronald L. Carlson and Cobb Professor David E. Shipley were appointed charter members of the State Bar of Georgia Foundation of Freedom Commission, which was established to promote public understanding of the law and its role in society through an educational campaign.

Additionally, the Local Government Law Section of the State Bar of Georgia unanimously approved a resolution of appreciation for Carter Chair Emeritus R. Perry Sentell Jr. (LL.B. 1958), recognizing his 42 years of service to the section in presenting the changes in case law affecting local governments to the Institute of City-County Attorneys each fall.

On a sad note, I would be remiss if I did not mention the passing this summer of two well regarded former Georgia Law faculty – Robert D. Peckham, a leader in indigent defense who directed the Legal Aid and Defender Society (which would later become the Legal Aid and Defender Clinic) for nearly two decades, and Woodruff Chair Emeritus Louis B. Sohn, an eminent international law scholar who played an instrumental role in the development of the United Nations and taught at the law school for more than 10 years. I know you join me in offering condolences to Robert’s children, Richard and Nancy, and to Louis’ wife, Betty.

This fall, the law school welcomed several visiting faculty members. Former U.S. Department of Commerce Deputy Secretary Theodore W. “Ted” Kassinger (J.D. 1978) is serving as the Carl E. Sanders (J.D. 1948) Political Leadership Scholar teaching International Trade Law and Policy, and Kim Van der Borght, a visiting professor from the University of Hull in England, is leading the classes International Trade Law, and Health and International Trade.

For the 2006-07 academic year, Matthew J. Festa is serving as a visiting assistant professor instructing classes in civil procedure and land use planning, while 2002 alumna Emily Hammond Meazell is teaching Property Law and Law and Science as a visiting assistant professor. Emily is occupying a one-year teaching fellowship aimed at assisting superior Georgia Law graduates with the transition into the legal academy.

This fall, our first Cousins Public Interest Fellow, Torin D. Togut, joined our staff. This fellowship program seeks to foster the creation of projects to provide civil legal services to indigent Georgians and will offer experienced practitioners the opportunity to focus on these needs, with support from the fellowship and the law school. While Torin’s two-year project will concentrate on special education issues, future fellowships may target other areas. Applications for the 2007-09 fellowship should be sent to Associate Professor and Fellowship Coordinator Alexander W. Scherr.

In the spring, we are delighted that Georgia Secretary of State Cathy Cox will join us as the Sanders Political Leadership Scholar and will teach two courses - Law and Politics, and Election Law. Additionally, Margaret E. McGuinness, a specialist in international law, will serve as a visiting associate professor from the University of Missouri at Columbia School of Law.

Curricular offerings at Georgia Law are typically enhanced by a number of high profile guest speakers and lecturers. This fall, we were fortunate to host U.S. Supreme Court Justice Clarence Thomas on his third visit to campus since 2003.
While here, Justice Thomas visited with numerous faculty and students, participated in constitutional law and education law classes, and held a Q&A session for students.

As part of a new lecture series coordinated by the Dean Rusk Center – International, Comparative and Graduate Legal Studies and UGA’s Willson Center for Humanities and Arts, former Solicitor-General of Hong Kong Daniel R. Fung talked about Chinese politics and economics.

The 101st Sibley Lecturer was the renowned legal and literary scholar Stanley Fish, who is currently the Davidson-Kahn Distinguished University Professor of Humanities and Law at Florida International University.

U.S. Sen. Johnny Isakson served as the 2006 graduation speaker, while the 24th Edith House Lecture was delivered by the winning attorney in the historic U.S. Supreme Court case Roe v. Wade, Sarah Weddington.

The 18th Annual Red Clay Conference focused on natural disaster planning and featured nationally recognized expert on environmental law and land use Rob R.M. Verchick, the Gauthier-St. Martin Eminent Scholar Chair in Environmental Law at Loyola University in New Orleans.

This past spring, the law school broke new ground with a new educational offering. What separates the Alumni Advocacy Series from other educational programs utilizing past graduates is this initiative’s sole focus on key elements for successful advocacy in the courtroom. The spring’s program featured presentations by Scott A. Farrow (J.D. 1986), Richard H. “Rick” Hill II (J.D. 1995), Donald F. “Don” Samuel (J.D. 1980), Andrew M. “Andy” Scherffius (J.D. 1974), W.G. “Bill” Scrantom Jr. (LL.B. 1955) and Gordon A. Smith (J.D. 1978).

Due to the overwhelmingly positive response by students, this program will be held each spring. Alumni Michael B. “Mike” Terry (J.D. 1987), Susan V. Boleyn (J.D. 1975) and N. Karen “Kay” Deming (J.D. 1978) already have signed on for the 2007 series.

STUDENTS

I am pleased to report that in August we, once again, enrolled an excellent class. The entering class of 2006 consists of 232 students and boasts a median undergraduate GPA of 3.62 and a median LSAT score of 163, which ties a school record and reflects a score that places these students in the top 10 percent of test takers nationwide. Moreover, the top quarter of the class scored 164 or higher on the LSAT and achieved a 3.85 or better undergraduate GPA.

One-quarter of the entering class indicated they were members of a minority group, making this class among the most diverse in law school history. Of the 59 minority students enrolled, 37 are African Americans.
In terms of gender, 55 percent of this class is male and 45 percent is female. Although the Class of 2009 consists of residents from 19 different states who are graduates from 80 institutions, approximately 85 percent of the students consider Georgia their home state.

The University of Georgia continues to be our top “feeder” school with 87 graduates enrolled. Other leading schools from which our entering class received their undergraduate degrees are: the Georgia Institute of Technology (15), Emory University (8), Georgia State University (5), the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill (5), Furman University (4) and Vanderbilt University (4).

Fifteen practitioners have enrolled in the school’s Master of Laws program for 2006-07. These students are from 10 different countries including Cameroon, China, Ethiopia, India, Jamaica, Nigeria and Zimbabwe.

Our students continue to have many co-curricular opportunities to enrich their legal education. The school’s three journals – the Georgia Law Review, the Georgia Journal of International and Comparative Law and the Journal of Intellectual Property Law – remain well regarded and publish scholarship of the highest caliber.

Georgia Law’s advocacy program is one of the best in the nation. This past academic year, our teams captured three national championships, the most since 1996-97 when the school won four such crowns.

The 2005-06 titles came in the National First Amendment Moot Court Competition, the Thurgood Marshall Mock Trial Competition and the Dean Jerome Prince Memorial Evidence Moot Court Competition. Additionally, Georgia

Law captured all three trophies at the Intrastate Moot Court Competition.

The new advocacy season is currently underway, and I look forward to reporting our students’ future successes to you.

As our society becomes more and more globalized, opportunities for working and studying abroad are essential for producing the next generation of top lawyers. Earlier this year, the law school debuted two new learning programs – Georgia Law at Oxford and the Georgia Law Summer Program in China. Both of these initiatives received glowing appraisals from the ABA during their inaugural sessions.

The Oxford program is one of the few semester-long study abroad opportunities offered by American law schools and has a waiting list for the spring 2007 term.

Students and practitioners enrolled in the first Georgia Law Summer Program in China enjoyed a side trip to the Great Wall this past summer.

The China program is unique in that it offers the opportunity for study in two of the country’s largest cities - Beijing and Shanghai. With an emphasis on commercial and trade law, students have been eager to participate and, of special note, enrollment is open to practitioners, who can also earn CLE credit.

Considered one of UGA’s largest international programs in terms of geographic reach, our International Externship Program can now place up to 30 students in a legal working environment in one of 15 different countries each summer.
Noting this initiative started five years ago with just two students placed in one country, this success is remarkable.

After completing three years of legal study, our students continue to make us proud. Virtually all (99 percent) of the members of the 2005 graduating class were “placed” nine months after graduation (the official reporting deadline of the National Association for Law Placement (NALP)). They obtained employment in a variety of legal settings throughout the state of Georgia and in 13 other states, the District of Columbia and Japan. The average starting salary for these recent alumni was $78,756.

I am also pleased to report Adam M. Conrad, a member of the 2005 class, is currently serving as a judicial clerk to the U.S. Supreme Court’s Justice Clarence Thomas. He is the sixth Georgia Law graduate to secure a Supreme Court clerkship, and his selection places Georgia Law in an elite group of public law schools that have had at least six alumni to serve our nation’s highest court in this manner.

Additionally, 2005 alumna E. Ramsey Henderson joined the Office of Legal Career Services in November as assistant director. She replaced Anthony E. “Tony” Waller (J.D. 1993), who is now serving as assistant dean for career services at the University of Illinois College of Law. Ramsey will assist Director Beth S. Kirch with helping our students and alumni with their employment needs.

There are numerous ways to measure the educational quality of a law school. One way is to look at the “placement” rates at the time of graduation as well as at nine months out. For our most recent class, the Class of 2006, 87 percent were “placed” when they received their diplomas this past spring, an all time high for our school.

Please remember these employment rates do affect your law school’s rankings. As such, I ask that if you will be supplementing your legal staff to do so with a fellow Georgia Law graduate and, if possible, make your offer prior to May or February. I am confident you find a well-qualified candidate to suit your requirements with the assistance of Beth and Ramsey.

Our alumni remain a tremendous source of pride for our institution. After all, your professional and personal accomplishments as graduates of Georgia Law do much to confirm that you received a solid educational foundation during your time in Athens.

Two alumni who were recognized by the Law School Association for their achievements this summer were classmates Michael J. “Mike” Bowers (J.D. 1974) and Paul W. Painter Jr. (J.D. 1974). The pair received the alumni association’s highest honor, the Distinguished Service Scroll Award.

Award presenter and Georgia Law Dean Emeritus Ralph Beard (left) with Mike Bowers (J.D. 1974), a recipient of the 2006 Distinguished Service Scroll Award.

Currently a partner at Balch & Bingham and chair of the Georgia Judicial Nominating Commission, Mike served as our state’s attorney general for more than 15 years. He has been named by Georgia Trend magazine as one of the “100 Most Influential Georgians” 10 times, most recently in 2006. Mike has actively participated in the LSA over the years, serving on its council from 1981 to 1985. He was also a member of the law school’s Board of Visitors from 1985 to 1987. Presently, he is serving a second term on the BOV.

Award presenter and fellow 1974 classmate Carl Pedigo (left) with Paul Painter, a recipient of the 2006 Distinguished Service Scroll Award.
Paul is a partner in the firm Ellis, Painter, Ratterree & Adams. During his 32 years of private practice, he has served as president of the Savannah Bar Association and the Georgia Defense Lawyers Association. He has also been the Georgia chair of the American College of Trial Lawyers and a member and chair of the Board of Bar Examiners. For the last three years, Law & Politics and Atlanta Magazine have recognized him as one of Georgia’s “Top 100” lawyers. Paul, too, has been active in the LSA, serving as a member of its council from 1997 to 2004 and as president during 2002-03. He also was a member of the BOV from 2003 to 2006.

I am continuously grateful to the alumni currently serving on the law school’s advisory boards. These members provide me, and the school, with valued feedback and assistance as we move forward. Last year, J.D. Smith (J.D. 1971) led the BOV and Robert O. Freeman (J.D. 1972) directed the LSA. This year, James E. "Jim" Butler Jr. (J.D. 1977) chairs the BOV, and Eleanor Banister (J.D. 1980) presides over the LSA.

At Homecoming, (l. to r.) 1966 classmates Chester Davenport, Alex Crumbley and Daniel Coursey found time to reconnect. Also photographed is Coursey’s wife, Diane.

Ethel T. and Verner F. Chaffin (LL.B. 1942) that will create the law school’s 12th endowed faculty chair – the Verner F. Chaffin Chair of Fiduciary Law; a pledge by Kenneth Klein (J.D. 1976) to support the study of international law by establishing an endowed scholarship, a fund for the Brussels Seminar on the Law and Institutions of the European Union study abroad program, and the Dean Rusk Center; a pledge by Keith W. Mason (J.D. 1985) to establish a scholarship to support a law student who has graduated from UGA’s Terry College of Business and/or the School of Public and International Affairs; a gift from the estate of Frank Lumpkin to fully endow the Edith M. and Frank G. Lumpkin Scholarship; a commitment from Michael J. Sharp (J.D. 1991) to create the Michael J. Sharp Scholarship Fund; and support from the Thom and Irene Kirbo Charitable Trust.

Sutherland Asbill & Brennan became the first firm to sign on to the Georgia Law Firm Initiative with a combined gift of $250,000 that will name the courtyard at the law school the “Sutherland Courtyard.” James L. “Jim” Henderson III (J.D. 1976) led the way with a gift and was a driving force behind the firm’s commitment. Partners, associates and the firm itself have made five-year pledges to the law school as part of this endeavor.

To date, the law school has raised more than $14 million toward its campaign goal of $17 million and, during the last fiscal year alone, the law school received more than $5.4 million in gifts and pledges, making it our most successful fund-raising period ever.

I would personally like to thank all of you who have made Georgia Law one of your philanthropic priorities; you are identified in the pages of this Annual Report.

I do understand there are many pressures you face as you try to determine how to best allocate your resources. When doing so, I hope you will reflect on the strong educational foundation you received during your time at Georgia Law and remember the law school’s continued success will only increase your pride in your legal alma mater.

The fall semester is such a great time to visit Athens. With the start of an academic year comes a new energy and increased enthusiasm.

It is also time for reconnecting with many of you. Over the past several months, many of you attended our record breaking Homecoming BBQ (with more than 1,350 registrants), successful reunion events, our annual Joseph Henry Lumpkin Society (annual donors of $1,000 or more) Champagne Reception, and our Open House and 88th Birthday Celebration for Callaway Chair Emeritus Verner Chaffin.

While on campus, you may have noticed the last of our classrooms have been renovated. In 2002 and 2003, the entire law school complex underwent a technology upgrade with the installation of wireless Internet access and multimedia teaching equipment. However, only a few of the classrooms and the Sanders Reading Room in the Alexander Campbell King Law Library received a complete physical remake. This summer, the remaining classrooms have been rebuilt and now reflect a modern teaching and learning environment.

If you have not had the opportunity to see these changes, I invite you to stop by during school hours. I am confident you will be impressed not only with the physical appearance of your law school but also with the current people — faculty, students and staff — that occupy the space.

Georgia Law is a place you can be proud to call your alma mater, and I’m sure you will be glad you made the time to visit.

Sincerely,

Rebecca Hanner White
Dean and J. Alton Hosch Professor of Law
Dear Alumni and Friends,

The Archway to Excellence Campaign has met with remarkable success this past year and serves as a wonderful testament to the role this law school has played in the lives of the extended Georgia Law family. I am pleased to report the law school has raised more than $14 million toward our campaign goal of $17 million. I am proud of the personal commitment many of you have made. Welcoming gifts to the law school from over 2,000 supporters demonstrates that this institution’s reputation as one of the nation’s premier public law schools is well deserved.

However, we must continue to grow the financial support from individuals, corporations and foundations in order to move Georgia Law ahead. Private gifts are the key to helping our law school realize its ambition of becoming an even better law school. The need for private support is not new, but it is growing more pressing each year.

With this in mind, Georgia Law has launched an ambitious effort called the Georgia Law Firm Initiative. Spearheaded by a generous gift from Sutherland Asbill & Brennan LLP to name the law school courtyard, this effort aims to secure financial support from major law firms in the Southeast. These same firms routinely rely on Georgia Law for their greatest need - talented and qualified attorneys. In the coming months, I am certain you will hear more about other firms who have decided to make a similar investment in Georgia Law.

The following pages provide an overview of the fund-raising year and the available opportunities to make an impact on this law school. Please review the list of endowed and non-endowed funds and consider the impact that you might have on one of these funds or how you might create your own fund to support an area of particular interest to you. For many of you reading these pages, this law school has helped to define who you are today and provided you with the foundation on which your success has evolved. Please consider investing in Georgia Law’s future.

Sincerely,

J. Ralph Beaird
Dean Emeritus
Chairman, Georgia Law’s Archway to Excellence Campaign
ENDOWED AND NON-ENDOWED FUNDS

The following is a list of endowed and non-endowed funds that support Georgia Law. These funds represent Georgia Law’s future as they allow us to recruit excellent faculty, enrich our curriculum and ensure that talented students have access to an excellent and affordable legal education.

The office of development welcomes the opportunity to talk with donors about making gifts to existing funds or creating new funds to benefit Georgia Law. Please contact Anne Moser, director of development, at (706) 542-7985 or Kittie Abell, major gifts officer, at (404) 843-3309.

"The Cousins Public Interest Fellowship program creates meaningful learning experiences for Georgia Law students, while also fostering the spread of civil legal services to indigent Georgians. Our first Cousins Fellow, Mr. Torin Togut, will work with parents of children with special education needs. The Cousins Public Interest Fellowship program will set in motion new services to the state’s neediest citizens, while introducing law students to core lawyering skills and to the values of public service."

Law School Fund Expenditures

In the 2005-2006 academic year, the majority of your contribution (66%) to the Law School Fund directly benefited law school students, particularly in the area of scholarship assistance. Each year, Georgia Law relies on annual contributions from its alumni and friends to provide essential operating dollars. Approximately $525,000 in contributions to the Law School Fund is needed for the 2006-2007 academic year.

Think of the Law School Fund as your annual salary – you have to earn it before you spend it. Dollars raised this fiscal year are spent next fiscal year. Our fiscal year runs from July 1 to June 30. All expenditures are approved through an itemized budget request presented to the Law School Association Council and voted on by Georgia Law’s Alumni Association each year during our annual meeting.

Please contact the law school’s development office at (706) 542-7639 or lawgifts@uga.edu today to make your gift.

Dear Fellow Alumni,

It is my pleasure as President of the Law School Association (LSA) to have this opportunity to thank the many people who invested in the University of Georgia School of Law this past year. The fiscal year ending June 30, 2006, was the law school’s most successful fund-raising year ever, and our hope is that the momentum will continue. Thank you again for your support.

Within the pages of this annual report, you can read about the law school’s recent successes and see the impact that private giving has had this past year. Much of the energy and enthusiasm around the law school stems from the generosity of Georgia Law alumni.

The other members of the Law School Association Council (LSAC) and I ask you to consider how the law school has influenced your life and what role the school has played in your professional success. We think you will agree that the law school has provided us with not only an outstanding education but the opportunity for life-long friendships and professional associations with our classmates and with the outstanding faculty and staff.

The Law School Fund is the financial engine that supports each and every aspect of the law school today. The LSAC is not only charged with the task of growing the Law School Fund but is strongly committed to this goal.

Your participation is essential. This past year only 20 percent of Georgia Law alumni made a gift to the law school. Obviously, that donor percentage is far too low. We can and must do better to continue to move our law school ahead. Georgia Law must be a top investment priority for all of us. Thank you in advance for your continued support of and investment in Georgia Law.

Sincerely,

Eleanor Banister (J.D. 1980)
2006-2007 LSA President
The School of Law is pleased to honor its annual contributors of $1,000 or more with membership in the Joseph Henry Lumpkin Society and greatly appreciates the commitment of these individuals to the continuous advancement of the quality of the law school. Lumpkin Society membership reached a new high in 2005-2006 with 297 generous alumni and friends of the School of Law making gifts of $1,000 or more. In addition, we received gifts of $1,000 or more from 21 private foundations and corporations.

Joseph Henry Lumpkin founded the University of Georgia School of Law in 1859, in collaboration with his son-in-law, Thomas R.R. Cobb, and colleague, William Hope Hull. Classes were first taught in Lumpkin’s law office at the corner of Prince Avenue and Pulaski Street in downtown Athens at what was then the Lumpkin Law School. Lumpkin, born in Oglethorpe County in 1799, was a distinguished lawyer and statesman and a major figure in Georgia public affairs. He graduated from Princeton in 1819, then “read law” under the tutelage of a practicing attorney, as was the custom of the day. Lumpkin was admitted to the Georgia bar in 1820. In 1824, he was elected to a two-year term in the Georgia legislature and in 1833, he helped frame the state penal code. In 1845, Lumpkin became the first chief justice of the Supreme Court of Georgia, where he served continuously until his death in 1867. You can join the Lumpkin Society and help sustain excellence at your law school. Please make your gift of $1,000 or more to the School of Law by June 30, 2007, and encourage several of your classmates and colleagues to follow your lead so that our Lumpkin Society membership can reach new heights again this year.

The Honor Roll recognizes gifts to all of the various funds that support the University of Georgia School of Law. It includes all private donations between July 1, 2005, and June 30, 2006 from alumni; other individuals; firms, foundations, corporations and organizations; matching gift companies; and Georgia Law faculty and staff. Gifts are listed by the following categories:

- Joseph Henry Lumpkin Society Benefactors — Donors of $10,000 or more
- Joseph Henry Lumpkin Society Fellows — Donors of $5,000 to $9,999
- Joseph Henry Lumpkin Society Partners — Donors of $2,500 to $4,999
- Joseph Henry Lumpkin Society Associates — Donors of $1,000 to $2,499
- Dean’s Council — Donors of $500 to $999
- Law School Advocates — Donors of $250 to $499
- Law School Supporters — Donors of $100 to $249
- Law School Friends — Donors of less than $100

Alumni Gifts

Alumni are listed by class year and, within the class year, by giving level. Each class list is prefaced by the number of alumni donors, percentage of class participation and amount of the overall class donation. Where only one class member participated, the specific gift amount is not disclosed.

“\textit{I believe in giving to the law school because I experienced first-hand the expense of a law school education. So now I support the future generation of lawyers at Georgia Law. I choose to designate my contributions to the Herman E. Talmadge Law Scholarship Fund. This not only helps Georgia Law students but also allows me to honor the memory of Senator Talmadge who was passionate about helping those less fortunate access higher education.”}

Annual Fund Leader

“Simple, I invest in the Law School each year because it first invested in me. It’s important to me that other students, particularly other African American students, be afforded the same opportunity that I had.”

Pamela D. Perdue
(J.D. 1983)
I appreciate the opportunity to make an annual gift to the University of Georgia Law School and to provide the school with needed unrestricted dollars through my employer, SunTrust’s matching gift program. The law school provided me with a great education, and I want to do what I can to help the students and faculty who are there now. The Law School Fund provides student scholarships that are essential to attract the best students. The Fund also gives the dean the flexibility she needs to support the faculty in their teaching and research.”

“Julie and I decided to support the law school through a bequest to establish the ‘Class of 1965 Scholars’ fund, which will provide scholarships for deserving law students. We hope our gift will encourage other law school graduates, particularly the class of 1965, to consider similar gift plans as a recognition of the role our law school has played in our lives and careers.”

Grads on Giving
Monthly Contributor

“As an alumnus of Georgia Law, I understand the need for private funding. As an employee, I see first-hand how our law school is impacted by private gifts. This is why I elected to support Georgia Law with monthly contributions. Whether by payroll deduction or electronic fund transfers, monthly gifts make giving easier.”

“I support the University of Georgia School of Law because I recognize how integral the school has been to my family. My brother and I followed in our father’s footsteps by attending Georgia Law, and now, my daughter is a second year student. The law school provides a solid legal education and a foundation for a lifetime of learning. I am pleased to support the law school in its mission to educate exceptionally bright students and encourage the outstanding teaching faculty who are this country’s leading legal scholars.”

Gifts to our Reunion Giving Program are directed to the Law School Fund and the Law School Reunion Scholarship Fund. The Law School Reunion Scholarship Fund is an endowed fund that provides scholarship dollars so Georgia Law can recruit the best and brightest students. The first Law School Reunion Scholarship was awarded this fall to Terressa Maacha Davis (Class of 2009).

CLASS AGENT PROGRAM

Over the last two years, Georgia Law reinstated a Class Agent Program where alumni volunteers were responsible for class fund-raising efforts. They have proven to be highly effective liaisons between their classmates and Georgia Law. We wish to thank our 2005-2006 class agents for an outstanding job.

Grads on Giving

“The University of Georgia School of Law is a special place. For me and my fellow alumni across the years, it provided a superior legal education that has changed our lives and helped us to change the lives of others and to change the face of the law in our chosen areas of expertise. I find it, therefore, an honor to be able to give something back to the school, not only to express my appreciation but also to ensure that the school will continue its tradition of providing superior training to future generations of lawyers.”

Michael J. Sharp
Law School Association President Robert O. Freeman and Dean Rebecca H. White proudly hold a check presented by the Class of 2006 during graduation. The 2006 Class Gift amount is the largest received to date.
