This year marks the 150th anniversary of our law school, one of the nation’s oldest and most successful public law schools. Although legal education has changed in significant ways over the past 150 years, the markers of a great law school have not. Putting academically rigorous teachers into classrooms with intellectually serious and highly motivated students results in a first class learning experience that produces professionals of the highest caliber. We are committed to continuing that proud tradition at Georgia Law and to enhancing what is already an outstanding work product.

It is my pleasure to provide you this report on our progress over the past year. As you will discover in reading through it, Georgia Law, 150 years after its founding, is and should be a source of pride for all those connected with our school.

FACULTY – TEACHING

Our talented faculty is of central importance to the success of our law school. Five members earned new titles or were granted tenure this year. J. Randy Beck and Lonnie T. Brown Jr. were promoted to the rank of full professor, Erica J. Hashimoto was granted tenure and Robert P. “Bobby” Bartlett III and Usha Rodrigues were named associate professors. Additionally, Matthew I. “Matt” Hall, who teaches Civil Procedure and Legal Profession, joined our faculty as an assistant professor.

Randy joined the School of Law in 1997 and has taught Property, Trusts and Estates, Christian Perspectives on Legal Thought and Constitutional Law. A former U.S. Supreme Court judicial clerk to Justice Anthony M. Kennedy, he also clerked for Judge Patrick E. Higginbotham of the U.S. Court of Appeals for the 5th Circuit and worked as a general litigation associate with Perkins Coie in Seattle, Wash., before coming to Athens.

Lonnie joined our faculty during 2002 and has taught Civil Procedure, Legal Profession, Ethics in Litigation and Conflict of Laws. Last academic year, he served as a UGA Administrative Fellow working in the Office of the Provost. He worked as an associate and partner at Alston & Bird and clerked for Judge William C. O’Kelley of the U.S. District Court for the Northern District of Georgia before entering academe. Lonnie also served as the chief organizer of the 10th Annual Legal Ethics and Professionalism Symposium, which was hosted by our law school in October and is highlighted in more detail later in this letter.

Erica joined the Georgia Law faculty during 2004 and has taught Criminal Law, Criminal Procedure, Evidence, Legal Profession and Sentencing. Previously, she was Teaching Corporate Finance and Contracts, Bobby joined our faculty during 2005. Previously, he was a visiting assistant professor at the Fordham University School of Law and a corporate associate in the Menlo Park, Calif., and Waltham, Mass., offices of Gunderson Dettmer Stough Villeneuve Franklin & Hachigian. Bobby is currently on leave this academic year, visiting at the University of California at Berkeley.

Specializing in corporate law, Usha leads courses on contracts, corporations and the life cycle of a corporation. Prior to becoming a Georgia Law faculty member in 2005, she was a corporate associate with Wilson Sonsini Goodrich & Rosati in Reston, Va., where she focused on corporate law and technology transactions. Usha also served as a judicial clerk for Judge Thomas L. Ambro of the U.S. Court of Appeals for the 3rd Circuit.

Our newest professor, Matt Hall came to Athens after serving as a visiting assistant professor at the University of the Pacific McGeorge School of Law and an adjunct at the University of California at Davis. A former judicial clerk for Judge David F. Levi of the U.S. District Court for the Eastern District of California and Judge Marsha S. Berzon of the U.S. Court of Appeals for the 9th Circuit, he earned his bachelor’s degree cum laude and Phi Beta Kappa from the Johns Hopkins University and his J.D. cum laude from the University of Michigan, where he was articles editor of the Michigan Law Review.

FACULTY – RESEARCH

The Georgia Law faculty continues to produce outstanding scholarship. Recent works have appeared or are forthcoming in journals such as the Iowa Law Review, the Minnesota Law Review, the Northwestern University Law Review, the Texas Law Review, The University of Chicago Law Review, the University of Pennsylvania Journal of Constitutional Law, the Vanderbilt Law Review and the Virginia Law Review.

First-edition books that have been published in the past year or are forthcoming include: Associate Dean for Faculty Development and Woodruff Chair in International Law Daniel M. Bodansky’s The Art and Craft of International Environmental Law from Harvard University Press, Hosch Professor Anne Proffitt Dupre’s (J.D. 1988) Speaking Up: The Unintended Costs of Free Speech in Public Schools also from Harvard University Press and Martin Chair James C. “Jim” Smith’s The Glannon Guide to Property from Aspen Publishers.

Moreover, Hosch Professor Thomas A. Eaton’s article “The Contours of a New FRCP, Rule 68.1: A Proposed Two-Way Offer of Settlement Provision for Federal Fee-Shifting Cases” in 252 Federal Rules Decisions 551 (2008) (with H. Lewis) was selected for the Southeastern Association of Law Schools’ 2009 Call for Papers Award.

FACULTY – SERVICE

Service is a key part of the school’s mission. Many of our faculty have answered the call of service to the legal profession and to the broader community. National recognitions awarded during the past 12 months include Associate Dean for Academic and Student Affairs and Hosch Professor Paul M. Kurtz being presented with the National Child Support Enforcement Association’s Child Support Community Service Award, which honors an individual who has made significant contributions to the child support community.

Law Library Director and Professor E. Ann Puckett was given the American Association of Law Libraries’ most prestigious honor, the Marian Gould Gallagher Distinguished Service Award, which recognizes outstanding, extended and sustained service to law librarianship and to the AALL.
Associate Professor Peter B. “Bo” Rutledge was selected to serve on the Institute of Transnational Arbitration’s Academic Council, to sit on the U.S. Court of Appeals for Veterans Claims Rules Advisory Committee and to be a member of an American Arbitration Association delegation to the United Nations’ Commission on International Trade Law.

Also, Associate Professor Usha Rodrigues was appointed as reporter of the American Bar Association’s Special Task Force on the Impact of the Troubled Asset Relief Program on Corporate Governance.

One of the drawbacks of having a stable and experienced faculty is the need, from time to time, to say goodbye to those who have served our institution with distinction. Earlier this year, after more than 35 years of service, Cleveland Distinguished Chair of Legal Ethics and Professionalism, Meigs Distinguished Teaching Professor and former Dean C. Ronald Ellington retired. Since his retirement, he has been granted emeritus status and has been presented with UGA’s Blue Key Service Award, which honors those who have made important contributions to the university, the state and the nation. Fortunately, Ron will continue to teach Georgia Practice and Procedure for us.

Additionally, Kilpatrick Chair of Corporate Finance and Securities Law Charles R.T. “Chuck” O’Kelley retired from UGA after more than a decade of teaching. Chuck now serves on the law faculty of Seattle University.

Professor David A. Brennen, who joined our faculty in 2006 and specialized in taxation and nonprofit law, became dean of the University of Kentucky College of Law after serving as deputy director of the Association of American Law Schools for the past two academic years.

Lastly, Law Library Director and Professor Ann Puckett recently informed me of her intention to retire this coming June. Of Ann’s 30-plus year career in law librarianship and legal teaching, approximately half was spent here at Georgia Law.

FACULTY – OTHER

One of the great things about being a highly regarded law school is the quality of the visiting professors and guest speakers we attract. These visitors enrich the academic environment of Georgia Law in many ways.

This past spring’s Sanders Scholar (named in honor of former Georgia Gov. Carl E. Sanders (J.D. 1948)) was former Speaker of the U.S. House of Representatives Newt Gingrich, who was assisted in teaching the course by alumnus J. Randolph “Randy” Evans (J.D. 1983).

Joining us this academic year are: former Georgia Supreme Court Chief Justice Leah Ward Sears who will lead a course on contemporary issues in family law, Delaware Court of Chancery Chancellor William B. Chandler III who will teach Advanced Corporations, the University of the Pacific McGeorge School of Law’s Miriam A. Cherry who will instruct in the areas of contracts and corporations, the University of New Mexico’s Scott H. Hughes who will lead courses in arbitration and the theory of conflict as well as assist with our Civil Externship Clinic, former Central Intelligence Agency legal adviser Frederic F. Manget who will teach Intelligence Law, the University of Arkansas at Little Rock’s Richard J. Peltz who will instruct in the areas of torts and freedom of information law, and the University of Brussels Centre for Economic Law and Governance’s Kim Van der Borght who will teach International Economics.

Our 2009-2011 Public Service Fellow is Alison R. Spiers. Our fellowship program fosters the creation of projects that provide civil legal services to indigent Georgians and incorporate law students in the delivery of these services. As our fourth fellow, Alison’s project will serve the legal needs of the homeless and those at risk of homelessness.
Guest speakers who spent time in Athens to share their experience with our students and faculty during the past 12 months include: U.S. Supreme Court Justice Clarence Thomas, Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of India K.G. Balakrishnan, former Solicitor General of Hong Kong Daniel R. Fung, former U.S. Foreign Service officers Earle St. A. Scarlett and Barbara A.H. Scarlett, and the University of Utah’s Amos N. Guiora.

Additionally, UGA Center for the Study of Global Issues Director Han S. Park spoke about his role in the August release of two U.S. journalists from North Korea.

U.S. District Court for the Southern District of Georgia Judge Lisa Godbey Wood (J.D. 1990) delivered the 2009 commencement address, while Chicago-Kent College of Law’s Felice J. Batlan, who spoke about female law school experiences and a recent study she conducted, served as the 27th Edith House Lecturer.

The school’s 104th Sibley Lecturer was Stanford’s Vice Dean and Gaither Professor Mark G. Kelman, who addressed the valuation of death. This fall’s Sibley Lecturer was the University of Virginia’s Harrison Distinguished Professor Frederick Schauer, who spoke on the law’s impact on the behavior of public officials. In addition, statutory interpretation expert William Eskridge Jr., Yale University’s Garver Professor of Jurisprudence, will be our spring 2010 Sibley presenter.

The conferences organized by Georgia Law’s faculty and students continue to be of the highest caliber. These symposia enrich the academic environment by encouraging dialogue and furthering research on important and timely topics.

In January, the law school hosted International Commercial Arbitration: Fifty Years After the New York Convention, which featured keynote speaker and international dispute resolution authority Gary Born who introduced his new treatise on international commercial arbitration during the event.

The 21st Annual Red Clay Conference focused on green sustainable commerce and featured Associate Professor Peter A. Appel, President of Registry Consultants Dr. T. Rick Irvin (J.D. 2008) and Smith, Gambrell & Russell Environmental Law Section and Sustainability Practice Group Leader Stephen E. O’Day.

Of special note, organizers of the Working in the Public Interest Law Conference — with a keynote address delivered by the Southern Poverty Law Center’s Immigrant Justice Project Director Mary Bauer — and the school’s annual Equal Justice Foundation Auction won the university’s S.O.A.R. Award for Outstanding Campus Event for their combined public interest weekend held early in the spring semester.

Georgia Law also hosted approximately 150 law librarians during April for the Southeastern Chapter of the American Association of Law Libraries Annual Meeting, which promotes law librarianship and seeks to increase the usefulness of law libraries.

This fall, nearly 40 judges and court personnel came to campus from Brazil as participants in the Dean Rusk Center’s International Judicial Training Program, which seeks to facilitate reform by offering capacity-building judicial administration programs. In addition, this month, the IJTP took its program on the road for the first time and provided onsite training in conjunction with the Dubai Judicial Institute for members of the judiciary from Bahrain, Qatar and the United Arab Emirates.

STUDENTS

The educational mission of Georgia Law is immeasurably enriched by bright students. Gifted students not only challenge their peers but they also push professors into taking thoughts, theories and principles to the next level of discussion.
I am very pleased to share that the academic credentials of the entering Class of 2009 are the best in Georgia Law history. Well over half of the students who enrolled this fall scored 164 or higher on the Law School Admission Test, placing these students in the top 10 percent of test takers nationwide. The median undergraduate grade point average of the class was 3.7. Both figures represent school records.

While 71 percent of the students in the first-year class are Georgia residents, they come from 27 states and 90 undergraduate schools. The most represented schools in this class are: the University of Georgia (81), Emory University (13), Georgia State University (13), the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill (6), the Georgia Institute of Technology (5) and Vanderbilt University (5). The most common undergraduate degrees are: political science, finance, history and English.

This entering class of 241 students is 54 percent male and 46 percent female, with a minority enrollment of 23 percent.

The Master of Laws class is also talented with 13 professionals and practitioners seeking to expand their understanding of law and legal issues with individually fashioned programs. These students come to Georgia Law from countries such as China, Colombia, Costa Rica, Ethiopia, Germany, Nigeria and the Republic of Congo.

The New York Times recently compiled Class of 2008 starting salaries and degree costs for a select group of law schools. The data illustrates Georgia Law’s excellent return on investment.

duration from three weeks to three-and-one-half weeks. Furthermore, Georgia Law is one of only a few American law schools to operate a semester study abroad program. Ours is at the University of Oxford.

Our advocacy programs continue to be counted among the best in the country. Over the past five years, Georgia Law has captured six national titles, 13 regional crowns and four state trophies in addition to numerous individual and team honors. This past academic year, Georgia Law had two teams win the regional round of the 2009 Texas Bar Association National Trial Competition and finish as national semifinalists and quarterfinalists. Moreover, the school continued its winning streak in the Intrastate Moot Court Competition by taking home all three trophies – the championship, best brief and best oralist – for the second straight year and the championship title for the fourth year in a row. The law school had a top eight finish at the 6th Annual Buffalo-Niagara Mock Trial Competition, and it captured the regional trophy and a national quarterfinalist title at the Thurgood Marshall Mock Trial Competition.

Georgia Law students are also important players in the research role of the school. They regularly organize conferences, and through the more than 30 law student organizations, they sponsor speakers on a wide variety of legal topics each year. However, perhaps the most obvious contribution to the pursuit of legal scholarship by our student body is through our three student-edited journals – the Georgia Law Review, the Georgia Journal of International and Comparative Law and the Journal of Intellectual Property Law. Frequently cited, these texts publish works authored by leading scholars as well as select student notes.

Our students answer the call to service through any of the 11 service learning opportunities offered at the school. Dating back more than 40 years, Georgia Law’s clinical-type offerings include: the Capital Assistance Project, the Civil Externship Clinic, the Criminal Defense Clinic, the Environmental Practicum, the Family Violence Clinic, the Land Use Clinic, the Mediation Practicum, the Prosecutorial Clinic, the Public Interest Practicum, the Special Education Practicum and the Corporate Counsel Externship, which is new this year. Georgia Law students also initiate symposia addressing social justice issues, which encourage discussion and action, and organize a range of volunteer efforts, such as food and clothing drives, mentoring students and assisting with income tax filing.

For the Class of 2008, which reported a 98.1 percent placement rate within nine months after graduation (the official reporting deadline of the National Association for Law Placement), 34.2 percent chose employment in public interest, government or judicial clerkship positions. As a whole, this class obtained employment in 19 different states.

More than one-third of the Class of 2008 chose public service employment.

Of special note is 2007 alumna Merritt E. McAlister, who is currently serving as a U.S. Supreme Court clerk to Justice John Paul Stevens. She is the fourth Georgia Law graduate in the last five years to serve our nation’s highest court in this capacity, placing Georgia Law among the top law schools in the nation for supplying clerks to this court.

I encourage you, if you are seeking to hire, to call the school’s Office of Legal Career Services to find a well qualified Georgia Law student or graduate. With the recent addition of Assistant Director Sara Schramm—who earned her law degree from Brooklyn Law School and worked for Simpson Thacher & Bartlett in New York City and Evert Weathersby Houff in Athens—Director Beth Shackleford Kirch, Career Advisor Tricia J. Hackleman and other career services staff are well positioned to assist with filling your needs.

ALUMNI

This past summer, two of your fellow alumni were presented with the school’s alumni association’s highest honor, the Distinguished Service Scroll Award. They are Emmet J. Bondurant II (LL.B. 1960) and Kenneth “Ken” Klein (J.D. 1976).

Emmett is a partner at Bondurant, Mixson & Elmore. A trial lawyer with more than 45 years of experience, he specializes in antitrust law. He received a Trial Lawyer of the Year Award from the Georgia chapter of the American Board of Trial Advocacy in 1992 and, in 2000, was recognized by The National Law Journal as one of the top 10 lawyers in the United States. He has also served as chair of the school’s Board of Visitors and as a president of the Law School Association.

Ken is currently a partner at Mayer Brown, where he serves as firm-wide practice leader for its Tax Transactions and Planning Department. His areas of focus include international taxation, tax planning, tax transactions, tax controversies and public policy. He was named as one of the “World’s Leading Tax Advisers” by Euromoney’s International Tax Review in 2007 and was selected as a leading tax lawyer by Chambers USA in 2005, 2006, 2007 and 2008. Additionally, Ken is a member of the law school’s BOV.

Notably, 1980 alumnus Jere W. Morehead was recently named UGA’s new senior vice president for academic affairs and provost. He will assume the university’s second-highest administrative post on January 1, replacing Arnett C. Mace Jr., who is retiring after 18 years of service to UGA, with seven of those years as provost.

I would also like to recognize last year’s alumni board leaders. Edward T.M. Garland (LL.B. 1965) chaired the BOV, while Henry C. Tharpe Jr. (J.D. 1974) presided over the LSA. Their talents and time, and those of their fellow board members, were very much appreciated.

Others who have lent their skill and knowledge to your alma mater during the past academic year are participants in the Dean’s Business Roundtable Series, where alumni come to campus and, in a small group setting, share their professional experiences with our students. Those in attendance last year were: Robert O. Ball III (J.D. 1986), Office Arrow; Otis A. Brumby Jr. (LL.B. 1965), The Marietta Daily Journal/Neighbor Newspapers; David S. Golden (J.D. 1971), formerly of CGR Advisors; Frank J. Hanna III (J.D. 1986), Hanna Capital; Kenneth S. Resnick (J.D. 1981), GE Oil & Gas; Michael J. Sharp (J.D. 1991), formerly of Citi Global Wealth Management and now with WilmerHale; and Alan P. Shor (J.D. 1983), The Retail Connection.

In addition, our Alumni Advocacy Series panelists imparted courtroom knowledge and strategies to our students in this popular forum. This past spring, we hosted Morris, Manning & Martin’s Holly A. Pierson (J.D. 1996), Cbeyond’s William H. “Bill” Weber IV (J.D. 1996), former longtime Georgia Eastern Judicial Circuit District Attorney Spencer Lawton Jr. (J.D. 1971) and Pope, McGlamry, Kilpatrick, Morrison & Norwood’s William U. “Bill” Norwood III (LL.B. 1967).
Furthermore, Valerie Caproni (J.D. 1979), who currently serves as general counsel for the Federal Bureau of Investigation, took time to share her experiences with her fellow law school alumnae at an Atlanta gathering in February. This event was hosted by Jeanine Gibbs Garvie (J.D. 1996) at McKenna Long & Aldridge.

Some of your fellow graduates also provide support to the law school by helping to organize and host an event. I thank E. Kendrick “Ken” Smith (J.D. 1981) and Caryl Greenberg Smith (J.D. 1982) for welcoming more than 120 guests into their Atlanta home for the Joseph Henry Lumpkin Society Spring Twilight Affair. This event honors alumni who have donated $1,000 or more annually to the law school.

Additionally, N. Karen “Kay” Deming (J.D. 1978) hosted an admissions reception for admitted students at Troutman Sanders during March.

Another way to support your law school is with a charitable gift. All contributions, large and small, are sincerely appreciated, and I am delighted you are able to be recognized in this Annual Report.

Your donations do make a difference, especially in challenging economic times such as these. For the 2008-2009 fiscal year, the school raised more than $2.1 million from nearly 19 percent of our alumni body. Of special note, in May, the Class of 2009 presented the school with a class gift of almost $89,000, eclipsing the previous high by more than $20,000. This effort, co-chaired by Benjamin R. “Ben” Carlsen and Valerie Alva-Ruiz, was supported by more than 54 percent of the class.

Your money, time and talents given to the law school are indispensable investments. Your law school’s main areas of need continue to be student scholarships and support for our professors. Talented students impact the level and quality of the academic rigor found in the classroom, and teachers who are afforded time and funding for scholarly pursuits are better poised to educate the next generation of leaders.

Our primary goal is simple – to offer one of the finest legal educations in the country. As members of the Georgia Law community, we have so many reasons to be proud – our dedicated and talented faculty and staff, our engaged and intelligent student body and our successful and supportive alumni base.

Only with your generosity will Georgia Law be able to respond to changes in the legal field, to continuously improve the quality of legal education we offer and to further advance your alma mater among the ranks of our nation’s very best law schools. Our students and faculty are counting on you.

Sincerely,

Rebecca Hanner White
Dean and J. Alton Hosch Professor of Law

Class of 2009 Legacy Gift Committee Co-chairs Valerie Alva-Ruiz and Ben Carlsen presented a check during graduation to the law school for the record amount of $88,925.

This year’s alumnae evening featured General Counsel for the Federal Bureau of Investigation Valerie Caproni (J.D. 1979).
The following is a list of endowed and non-endowed funds that support Georgia Law. These funds represent Georgia Law’s future as they allow us to recruit excellent faculty, enrich our curriculum and ensure that talented students have access to an excellent, affordable legal education.

The office of development welcomes the opportunity to talk with donors about making gifts to existing funds or creating new funds to benefit Georgia Law. For more information, contact the development office at (706) 542-7639 or lawgifts@uga.edu.

The longer we practice the more we appreciate the opportunities we have had to contribute to our grand profession and to assist in some way others who follow along. A gift to support the mission and objectives of the Law School is an excellent way to insure that we will have lawyers and judges who are highly trained and effective in preserving the tradition of excellence exhibited by Georgia law graduates.

I replied “Yes,” a little nervously, not sure of what might be coming next. The four people in line behind me seemed to be leaning in to listen.

“My Granny says you saved my life. She talks about you all the time.”

She told me her Granny’s name and then I remembered. A desperate heartsick lady had come to see me to ask for my help in getting custody of her granddaughter. The lady suspected her son and his wife of being drug addicts. It was not a pretty picture and the lady didn’t have much money. But, we went to Court and permanent custody of Misty was awarded to her Granny.

This is why we went to law school. To help people.

As we celebrate the 150th Anniversary of Georgia Law, please remember that this place gave you the education you needed to help people solve their problems and, because of this, you have been able to earn both a living and the respect of the community you serve.

I give to Georgia Law to show my gratitude for the skills that allow me to help my clients and my community. But I also give for the satisfaction of knowing that I have helped the law school to attract the brightest students and retain the best faculty, and that I am doing my part for the next generation of students who will join our profession. And I take pride in having a diploma on my wall from one of the country’s finest law schools.

These are tough economic times, and I know that all of us are hearing from myriad worthy organizations and institutions (and possibly family and friends, too). Despite the lawyer jokes and the ad hominem attacks on talk radio or from politicians, you know that we hear from so many seeking aid because we have proven so generous in the past; I trust that we Georgia Law graduates will dig deep to help wherever it is needed.

But let’s not forget our law school, for this is where leaders and problem solvers are trained; together we can guarantee another 150 years of success at Georgia Law. So please join with me in investing generously in our School of Law - the Mistys of tomorrow are depending on us.

Gregory C. Sowell (J.D. ’83)
Law School Association President
The School of Law is pleased to honor its annual contributors of $1,000 or more with membership in the Joseph Henry Lumpkin Society and greatly appreciates the commitment of these individuals to the continuous advancement of the quality of the law school. In 2008-2009, 322 generous alumni and friends renewed or joined the Joseph Henry Lumpkin Society.

Joseph Henry Lumpkin founded the University of Georgia School of Law in 1859, in collaboration with his son-in-law, Thomas R.R. Cobb, and colleague, William Hope Hull. Classes were first taught in Lumpkin’s law office at the corner of Prince Avenue and Pulaski Street in downtown Athens at what was then the Lumpkin Law School.

Lumpkin, born in Oglethorpe County in 1799, was a distinguished lawyer and statesman and a major figure in Georgia public affairs. He graduated from Princeton in 1819, then “read law” under the tutelage of a practicing attorney, as was the custom of the day. Lumpkin was admitted to the Georgia bar in 1820. In 1824, he was elected to a two-year term in the Georgia legislature and in 1833, he helped frame the state penal code. In 1845, Lumpkin became the first chief justice of the Georgia Supreme Court, where he served continuously until his death in 1867.

Join the Lumpkin Society and help sustain excellence at your law school. Please make your gift of $1,000 or more to the School of Law by June 30, 2010, and in honor of our 150th anniversary encourage several of your classmates and colleagues to follow your lead. With your Help 2009-2010 will be a record-setting one for the Lumpkin Society.

Choosing to give to the University of Georgia School of Law is one of the most important choices I make each year. I know that my gift goes to help our state’s flagship law school maintain the level of excellence that drew my classmates and I to Georgia Law— and, more importantly, to make the law school better.”

Tony Lehman (J.D. ’98)
The Honor Roll recognizes gifts to all of the various funds that support the University of Georgia School of Law. It includes all private donations between July 1, 2008, and June 30, 2009; from alumni, firms, foundations, corporations and organizations, other individuals, and Georgia Law faculty and staff. Gifts are listed by the following categories:

- Joseph Henry Lumpkin Society Benefactors  Donors of $10,000 or more
- Joseph Henry Lumpkin Society Fellows  Donors of $5,000 to $9,999
- Joseph Henry Lumpkin Society Partners  Donors of $2,500 to $4,999
- Joseph Henry Lumpkin Society Associates  Donors of $1,000 to $2,499
- Dean’s Council  Donors of $500 to $999
- Law School Advocates  Donors of $250 to $499
- Law School Supporters  Donors of $100 to $249
- Law School Friends  Donors of less than $100

ALUMNI GIFTS
Alumni are listed by class year and, within the class year, by giving level. Each class list is prefaced by the number of alumni donors, percentage of class participation and amount of the overall class donation. Where only one class member participated, the specific gift amount is not disclosed.

“...The scholarship support that I received from the Law School Fund was, without a doubt, the reason I chose to obtain my law degree from the University of Georgia. I am grateful to Georgia Law Alumni and Law School Fund supporters who have provided me with the wonderful opportunity of going to an excellent law school, and at the same time be able to consider a variety of future legal employment opportunities.”

"Growing up, my parents taught me that, ‘to whom much is given, much is expected.’ Georgia Law gave so much to me, and now it is my turn to give back to her. My gift fulfills more than an expectation. It is a reflection of my own personal gratitude and seed for continued excellence. The matching gift program at Coca-Cola Enterprises, Inc. is an added benefit. ‘It allows me to increase my giving with ease!’"

We helped organize a reunion for the UGA law classes of 1977 and 1978 with more than 110 of our classmates and former faculty in attendance. We realized that UGA Law has given us an excellent professional foundation along with enduring friendships, both personal and professional. With our son as a 2L, we are reminded of the importance of UGA law to our family. Our gift each year is our way of saying thank you for the past and good luck for the future. We encourage you to contribute to the Law School fund.

As with so many others, my years at the law school shaped and broadened my life. It was during my law school years that Susie and I married. While a student, I developed some of the best friendships a person could ever make. And I received a first-rate, quality legal education. My life and career have been much richer and fuller because of the education that I received at our law school.”

NEW JOSEPH HENRY LUMPKIN SOCIETY MEMBER
"As a Georgia Law graduate, I realize that our financial support contributes to the strength and vitality of our law school. I am grateful for the education it provided and I am honored to be a part of its proud tradition. It is a great institution and to remain great it requires the support of those of us it has already served so well. It deserves our support."

2007–2008 HONOR ROLL

MONTHLY CONTRIBUTOR

"UGA Law gave me an opportunity to receive a wonderful legal education, make lifelong friends, and have a career I love. How can I repay such a favor? By doing my part to make sure that UGA Law stays strong, I choose to make my gift in automatic debit monthly contributions because it’s simple to set up, it’s easy to maintain, and a little per month adds up to a lot.”

IRREVOCABLE PLANNED GIFTS
We are grateful to our alumni and friends who have chosen to participate in Georgia Law’s future success through their irrevocable planned gifts. The stream of future support provided by planned gifts helps assure that Georgia Law will maintain its strength for generations to come.

Life Insurance
Life insurance policies naming the UGA Foundation or Arch Foundation as the owner and beneficiary are considered irrevocable planned gifts.

Life Income Gift Programs: Charitable Gift Annuity
A gift annuity is a simple contract with the donor and the University of Georgia Foundation or the Arch Foundation to pay you and/or your designated beneficiary a fixed income for life. At the end of the contract term, the remainder will be distributed to the Law School to be used for the purpose you designate.

Edith Teasley Baxter (deceased)
Kenneth M. Henson
Barry Phillips

Pooled Income Gifts
Pooled income gifts operate similarly to mutual funds, as your contribution is combined with those of other donors and income is paid to you or your designated beneficiary in proportion to your share.
Jesse G. Bowles, Jr. (deceased)
Hamilton Lokey (deceased)
As Class Agents, our alumni volunteers communicate personally with classmates to maintain a strong connection between the Law School and its graduates. Class Agents lend their assistance to the law school's fundraising efforts by writing letters, sending e-mails and making personal phone calls to their classmates encouraging unrestricted annual giving. Class Agents seek to raise the level of annual support for the Law School Fund in terms of both increased dollars and higher alumni participation rates.

WE WISH TO THANK OUR 2008-2009 CLASS AGENTS FOR THEIR HARD WORK AND FOR AN OUTSTANDING JOB.

Class Agents play a vital role in the Law School Fund campaign, boosting overall participation from their classmates. If you would like to be a class agent or learn more about the Class Agent Program, please contact Phyllis Cooke, Director of Annual Giving at 706.542.7637 or email cooke@uga.edu

Special thanks to the 55 members of the Classes of 1977 and 1978 Joint Reunion Host Committee for organizing an outstanding class reunion in Atlanta in February. The committee members provided financial and volunteer support for the event and arranged for additional sponsorships from Insurance Specialists, Inc. and Larry Mansfield and Peachtree Construction Company; afterwards they presented the School of Law with an additional gift of $7,500 to the Hirsch Hall Fund. We are grateful to them for creating a great opportunity for connection among their classmates and for their helpful contribution to the law school.

Graduates on Giving

“...The Georgia School of Law provides its students an outstanding education and deserves our strong support. For decades students at this law school have benefited from the generosity of those who “gave back” to the school in appreciation for the enrichment of their lives that resulted from their time here. As a beneficiary of that generosity, I feel a responsibility to do the same for the future leaders of our profession and take great pride in supporting the Law School Fund.”

Faculty on Giving

ENDOWMENT SUPPORTER

“I have always loved books. My life has been enriched in countless ways by my passion for reading. My family’s gift to the John B. Rees, Jr. Law Library Fund supports the law school’s highly regarded library. It is a privilege to give to the school and library that have meant so much to me.”

John B. Rees, Jr.

“The Rees’ gift allows us to buy important books for our collection. Books go out of print quickly. If we don’t buy books when they’re published, our collection will be permanently damaged. This gift came at the perfect time to help us combat the worst effects of budget cuts, and we are deeply grateful to Professor and Mrs. Rees for their steadfast support of the Law Library.”

E. Ann Puckett
Director of the Law Library and Professor of Law

“John Rees was an excellent professor. His knowledge of Contracts and his dry wit always held the students’ attention. I taught Contracts for over 20 years at the University of Alabama Law School and he was my model.”

Nat Hansford (J.D. ’68)
