Enhanced D.C. internships prove valuable

New Deal lessons for the Affordable Care Act: The General Welfare Clause

Associate Professor Elizabeth Weeks Leonard (J.D.’99) discusses the Patient Protection and Affordable Care Act of 2010 and considers whether the Supreme Court’s ruling this summer compares, in terms of constitutional significance, to the court’s decisions during the New Deal era.

From the Packers to Patagonia: Nonprofit and not-just-for-profit corporations

Associate Professor Usha Rodrigues explores new corporate forms that blend traditional nonprofit goals with the ability to make a profit.

Apps to make your work easier

Information Technology Librarian Jason Tubinis highlights mobile apps that are tailored toward those in the legal profession.

Headlines

Top news from Georgia Law.

Hirsch Hall Highlights

Key events and institutional briefs.

Sibley Lecturer explores the role of the World Court

International Court of Justice Judge Joan Donoghue presented “The Role of the World Court Today” as the school’s 108th John A. Sibley Lecturer.
Faculty Accomplishments 23
The latest on faculty scholarship and achievements.

Georgia Law bids farewell to two longtime professors 23
Distinguished Research Professor and Rogers Chair Alan Watson and Professor Eugene Wilkes retired on June 1 after collectively dedicating more than 60 years of service to the law school.

Student Briefs 30
Student activities, accomplishments and profiles.

General Counsel for Coca-Cola delivers 30th Edith House Lecture
Serving as this year’s Edith House Lecturer was General Counsel for Coca-Cola North America Leslie Turner.

Rusk Center Reports 21
Dean Rusk Center updates and initiatives.

Class of 2012 Commencement 34
A photo essay of the graduation ceremony and excerpts from the keynote address delivered by U.S. District Court Judge Richard Story (J.D. ’78).

Alumni Activities 37
Alumni news, events and profiles.

Kurtz and Wooten receive Scroll Awards 37
Associate Dean Paul Kurtz and attorney Joel Wooten (J.D. ’75) were named the recipients of this year’s Distinguished Service Scroll Awards – the highest honor given by the Law School Association.

ABOUT THE COVER: The Sutherland Courtyard is now a highlight of the law school’s facilities thanks to a renovation that created almost 4,000 sq. ft. of additional space as well as a more attractive and functional courtyard. Photo by Dennis McDaniel.